Niagara College has been ranked the number one research college in Ontario and number two in all of Canada according to a recent report by an independent technology firm called Research in Focus.

Inside one of the research centres at Niagara College students and staff aren't just learning but also working with local businesses to come up with solutions to some of their technical challenges.

Some of the partnerships include manufacturing, food and beverage, and the environment. Students use a variety of technology to come up with a solution for a specific business.

Niagara College has over 100 programs with 4 research centres.
